BOARD OF DIRECTORS / REPORT

Every year at the station is a year of change, but I’d like to begin by highlighting some of the important ways that 2019 can be described as a year of growth at Coop Radio.

First of all, we have seen growth in fulfilling our core mission of producing creative and engaging programming for communities whose voices are underrepresented in mainstream media. This year, our original radio programming has grown from 126 hours in 2018 to 145 hours — meaning that 86% of our weekly hours on-air are now original local programming! There were 12 new shows launched this year — 12 new local, original, independent programs that are now serving our community.

We have built on our values of being participatory, community-based, and cooperative by training 57 new volunteers at the station between January and August. The majority of these new volunteers are youth — which is particularly exciting as we look to bring in the new generation of Coop Radio members and enthusiasts.

We have grown in our ability to connect with Coop Radio’s listeners and members. With Debbie Roche joining the team in April to grow our member engagement and fundraising initiatives. Our reach on social media has increased by nearly 30% from last year — helping us to bring in new listeners and connect with our audiences in new ways. This year’s Fall Member Drive raised nearly $10,000 more than last year’s!
On the Board this year, we worked to re-invigorate the critical volunteer committees that help keep the station running — Finance, Fundraising, Technical, Governance, and Programming. There is still much work to be done to make our volunteer efforts as effective and inclusive as possible, and that will be a considerable part of the work ahead of us in 2020. More on that later in today’s meeting!

Looking ahead, the Board will be organizing Strategic Planning in the first 3 months of 2020, to clarify our direction for the coming years. We will be looking to address the realities and limitations of our current funding model, and also to develop strategies for Coop Radio to take advantage of the ever-increasing interest in audio content. With the rise of podcasting, there is a great opportunity for us to grow our listener base and bring even more members into our community.

And, most importantly, we will undertake strategic planning by building on what makes Coop Radio so unique and special. The heart and soul of this station is the membership — and the magic that happens when we come together as a community to build capacity, to learn from one another, and to create amazing radio.

We must continually ground ourselves in the Cooperative Principles, and use those principles to guide our future. Cooperatives are “self-help organizations”, and our success as a Coop — and as a station — will always depend on the participation of our members. So I am particularly grateful to all of you for showing up and participating today — and I assure you that there will be opportunities for you and all Coop Radio members to be involved in the process of strategic planning in the coming months.

And, of course, our strategic planning will be guided by our core values of: the participation of many voices, co-operation, social justice, and remaining independent and community-based.

Kate Mooney
